Watch Out for Alligators!

The next time we meet, we’ll be in the wilds of Florida for AALL in Orlando. I’m from Kansas, and I know how out-of-staters expect us to be living in basements to escape from those tornados. So, I’m sure Floridians grit their teeth when Kansans worry about wandering outside into a herd or flock or whatever it is of alligators. At least I know what to say: “See you later...”

The plans for lunch in Orlando are final----see Needra’s note below if you have not paid for yours. The food should be good at the Peabody Hotel, and I hope we’ll have a guest speaker from the Chicago group. There is a Public Relations committee working an outstanding table representing MAALL at AALL. Stop by and visit.

The program is finished for Urbana and the Fall joint meeting with CALL. Put November 7, 8 and 9 on your calendars. We’ll have a good time and learn lots of new ideas. We have a surprise opening luncheon speaker with whom I promise you’ll laugh, plus two great outside speakers. Several CALL members are doing programs as well as professors from the library school. The Program Committee has done an excellent job!!

In conclusion, I have to tell Barbara Fullerton to watch out for those rattlesnakes in Texas. She has moved to Dallas and left us without a vice-president! We will all miss her. The Board is working on options for a replacement.

Johnson County Law Library

John Pickett, director of The Johnson County Law Library, Olathe, Kansas, states that the library has had success in the Kansas legislature amending one of the county law library statutes. K.S. A. 20-3126(c) has been amended to grant authority to the trustees of the Johnson County Law Library to charge an attorney law library fee of up to $125 per year. Our current fee is $75 which was our prior maximum allowable authorized fee. Johnson County, now the largest county in the state, is one of two counties authorized to charge up to $125. The other county is Sedgwick County (Wichita). These attorney law library fees account for about one-third of our revenue and are assessed on active licensed Kansas attorneys who reside in or have their primary office in Johnson County.

Joan Thomas reports that PS&W celebrated National Library Week with games, events and treats centered around alumni themes. Library staff devoted a day to KS/NE law schools, MO/TX law schools, Midwestern law schools, East Coast law schools, and West Coast law schools. PS&W began each day with a library bulletin e-mail announcing the games, events and treats centered around the days geographic location. The daily bulletins included lists of the firm's alumni from that day's alumni group. PS&W also used the event to introduce the firm's new Knowledge Management Director. PS&W concluded events with a wine and cheese reception on Friday afternoon to present prizes and to thank everyone for making this year's National Library Week a success! MLIC Director Richard E. Ducey, Carol Arnold, Melanie Nelson and Theresa Eubanks each received recognition for 15 years apiece, and Christy Ryan reached her 10 year mark. Technology

We see much written on “virtual reference,” but one New England librarian has written a short overview of the topic, emphasizing librarians need to change our thinking in order to meet the needs of our users, wherever they may be. Thompson, Tracy L., “NELLCO and Virtual Reference,” LLNE News, Vol. 22, no. 1, 2002, pgs. 1 & 5.

The Greater Philadelphia Law Library Association presented a workshop sponsored by West Group on “The Pillars of Knowledge Management: Blending People and Technology.” Announced on their Web page at:

Modern Web browsers have many features buried in them that make them easier to use. A Wisconsin librarian provided a list of tips to improve functionality of both Netscape and Internet Explorer. Shucha, Bonnie, “Seventeen Ways to Get the Most from Your Browser,” LLAW Newsletter, Vol. 19, no. 1, Winter 2001, pgs. 16 & 23.

Topical Research

Law involves many topics. One topic that we can be asked to research is accounting information. A New York law firm librarian provided a good, but brief article on sources of information in that field. Stone, Mark, “Accounting Overview,” LLAGNY Law Lines, Vol 25, no. 3, April 2002, pgs. 8-9.

Privacy

Professionalism

Mentoring as means to help each other and to help develop less experienced librarians is a current topic of discussion. Several mentoring projects and the reasons for them are presented in a recent article. Warren, Gail, “Who Needs a Mentor?” VALL Newsletter, Vol. 17, no. 4, Spring 2002, pgs. 10-11.

The topic of “the image of librarians” may have been over discussed on some listservs, however, the current President of the South Florida Association of Law Libraries tamed the subject in her article, which discusses some negative ideas about librarians and what might be done about it. Reinke, Janet, “President’s Message,” SFALL Newsletter, Vol. 25, no. 3, Spring 2002, pgs. 1-2.

Disaster Recovery

The Law Librarians of Puget Sound and their colleagues in the local SLA chapter conducted a joint program in which librarians from various libraries in that region recovered from earthquakes and floods that have hit in recent years. Tobiska, Linda, “Disaster Recovery,” LLOPScited, Vol 13, no. 3, Spring 2002, pgs. 9-10.

SWALL:
ARE YOU MISSING A LINK BETWEEN YOUR AALL AND LOCAL CHAPTER MEMBERSHIP? CONSIDER SOUTHWESTERN ASSOCIATION OF LAW LIBRARIES.

SWALL is the link between your local law librarians’ chapter and AALL. Have enough memberships in librarian organizations? Consider the moral of Goldilocks and the Three Bears - “not too big, not too small - but just right.” Just right for a situation where you may need to expand your search for information on a publication just a little wider than your local organization, but a bit smaller than AALL’s coverage.

Furthermore, SWALL’s membership reach often includes regional consortiums. The online discussion list and newsletter, among other networking and information opportunities, allow you to reach these regional group members. SWALL even covers two time zones! If your Texas or Missouri library contacts are closed for the day, librarians in New Mexico and Colorado are still on the job. The SWALL annual convention provides the opportunity to network with these librarians. The next time you need to speak to a Colorado librarian you may have met him/her at the SWALL convention or at our annual cocktail party at AALL. (Do you want to mention grants?)

SWALL’s continuing education presentations at the annual convention combined the practical and theoretical. At the 2002 meeting Bob Bering an authoritative voice in legal writing education was a plenary speaker. Top notch presentations ranged from serious subjects such as internet privacy considerations for law firms, foreign legal materials acquisitions, to writing javascript for web pages and the latest electronic gadgets. The 2003 convention will be held in Kansas City, Missouri. SWALL conventions provide a smaller, cozier setting where all accommodations, sessions, and the exhibit hall are all located within the same hotel. Most meals are also included in the registration cost. We’re usually closer to home to save on those travel expenses, too!

NEEDRA’S LAST-MINUTE INSTRUCTIONS
