WESTLAW

WESTLAW's Federal Labor database contains the major sources of authority in private sector labor law. Several recent additions, and the public sector labor law contained in the Federal Government Operations databases, round out labor law resources available on WESTLAW. All of the databases contained in the Federal Labor group are prefixed by "FLB-."

Typical of WESTLAW's topical databases, FLB contains selected sections from the U.S. Code and the Code of Federal Regulations relevant to labor in the FLB-USC and FLB-CFR, respectively. Title 29 of CFR is current to October 1, 1985. Both of these databases are browsable forward and back from a retrieved section by using the D command: d+n or d-n, where n=any number. FLB-FR contains the text of the Federal Register on labor matters from 1980 through about one week prior to the current date.

A researcher may search a combined file of federal court cases on labor by using FLB-CS, which contains U.S. Supreme Court, Court of Appeals and District Court decisions. These courts' opinions may also be searched separately, using the FLB prefix and the usual database identifier: SCT, CTA or DCT. Note that FLB-DCT contains cases from CCH Labor Law Reports (Labor Cases) from 1984 forward that are not reported in Federal Supplement, Federal Rules Decision or Bankruptcy Reporter. When trying to locate cases citing particular U.S. Code sections where labor acts are found, use the headnote field (abbreviated HE).

Because of the variety of documents contained in this and other topical databases, you may have different field search options than you are accustomed to. Plan to spend a little time diving into the Directory, where you will find a listing of searchable fields for each type of document, field abbreviations, explanations and sample field searches. The "Search Tips" sections are particularly useful if you are unfamiliar with the document type.

For example, E.R.I.S.A. Opinion Letters, from 1974 forward, were recently added in FLB-ERISA. These letters are prepared by the U.S. Department of Labor's Office of Pensions and Welfare Benefit Programs in response to questions arising under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974. The Directory Search Tip: to locate a desired U.S. Code section in an E.R.I.S.A. Opinion Letter, search PRELIM(Title 29) &

END(408), where "408" is an E.R.I.S.A. section number. The retrieved document will contain the U.S. Code reference. The letters also contain an INDEX field listing all E.R.I.S.A. sections cited in the letter.

FLB-NLRB contains the full-text of National Labor Relations Board decisions from 1971 to date. Occupational Safety and Health Review Commission decisions are available in full-text from 1971 in FLB-OSRC. Find and Insta-cite do not recognize N.L.R.B. or O.S.A.H.R.C. citations, or any other citations not from West Publishing Company reporters. To locate 261 NLRB No. 50 by citation, search CITE(261 +3 50).

Pensions Benefit Guaranty Corporation Opinion Letters issued since 1974 became available recently on WESTLAW in FLB-PBGC. These documents from the oversight corporation on the effect of E.R.I.S.A. on pensions programs were previously difficult to obtain.

The texts and periodicals database in labor is tagged FLB-TP. This database finally appears to have a little weight to it. The search "pension & bankrupt!" turned up 31 documents, including a literature review, in more than 20 law reviews dated 1983 - 1985. When the search was narrowed to "pension/p bankrupt!" five articles were retrieved.

See pp. 13/55 - 13/63 of the WESTLAW Reference Manual for more information and search strategies in the Federal Labor database.

Don't forget that decisions from the Federal Labor Relations Authority and from the Merit Systems Protection Board since 1979 are available in the Federal Government Operations topical database within FGO-FLRA and FGO-MSPB respectively. You will also find F.L.R.A. Administrative Law Judge decisions since 1981 in FGO-FLRAALJ. The decisions from 1970 forward of the independent agency (the Federal Service Impasses Panel) under F.L.R.A. that resolves disputes between federal agencies and labor organizations representing agency employees can be found in FGO-FSIP.

LEXIS

The field of labor law is one for which LEXIS has established an extensive and thorough library. One of the problems in researching labor law is that so many different legal bodies are involved, such as the federal courts, the National Labor Relations Board, the Merit Systems Protection Board, and others. The LEXIS labor

From The President

The Chapter's spring meeting in Charlottesville was a great success. The local arrangements were splendid, the accommodations superb, and the programs all excellent. We continue to be fortunate in the Southeast to have a fine group of active members, willing to put in the time and do the work necessary to stage annual meetings of consistently high quality. We are indebted this year to Carol Billings, Larry Wenger and everyone else who worked on the program and local arrangements.

The Charlottesville meeting provided an opportunity to note the importance of active involvement at all levels of professional association. There are many professional membership options available to us as law librarians. In addition to our existing regional and national law library associations, there are the three active local chapters in the region as well as less formal groupings on the state and local levels. There are also the state and local associations of special librarians, the national Special Libraries Association, state library associations, the American Library Association (and its multitudinous sections and divisions), and the Association of Legal Administrators to name only some of the options available. Clearly there is much to be gained from active involvement both in associations of law librarians and in those of diverse membership.

With choices available, why does membership in a large regional chapter such as SEAALL remain important? I have already alluded to one reason, the Chapter's tradition of fine educational programs and meetings. Additionally, I think that the regional chapters occupy an important place in the hierarchy of professional organizations. Despite the size of the Southeastern region, there remain many areas of commonality among the libraries within the region, and among the Southeastern states. Service to a large chapter also provides an opportunity for professional activity that is good preparation for work within the national association. Despite its geographic extent, the Chapter is small enough in membership that it is easy to volunteer and be active, and to meet people with shared professional interests.

So, for those reasons, and because of the people that you will be associated with, I urge you all to remain active and to become more involved in the affairs of the Chapter. Carol Billings needs your help during the coming year for committee work; Hazel Johnson needs your ideas and assistance putting together next year's program in Charleston.

As I end my term as president and prepare to pass on the gavel to Carol in Washington in July, I want to thank everyone who helped during the past year and with the 1985 spring program. I look forward to another year on the Chapter's executive committee and to continuing to serve the Chapter in the future.

See you in Washington.

EDITOR'S CORNER

We really had no idea what was in store for us when we volunteered to become newsletter co-editors while attending the Chapter meeting in Nashville in the spring of 1984. Well, now we know — and the experience has had an impact on us, both professionally and personally. We have become acquainted with many of our Chapter members who we never really knew before. We have also become familiar with all of AALL's other chapters and their newsletters. The professional contacts alone have been well worth the experience. Personally, neither of us will pick up any newsletter ever again without having a profound appreciation for what the editor and staff went through to produce it.

Serving all types of law librarians with informative and substantive material has been our primary goal. Our hope is that this issue and the previous seven which we edited have provided you, the Chapter member-library has separate files for all of these, along with larger files that combine several of these smaller ones.

There are seven main files for decisions and opinions. The first is COURTS, which is the combined opinions of the federal courts: Supreme Court, Courts of Appeal and District Courts. Following this is NLRB, for the Board's decisions, orders, and advisory opinions; FLRA, featuring decisions and orders of the Federal Labor Relations Authority; FSIP, containing decisions of the Federal Service Impasses Panel, which mediates between unions and the government; MSPB, featuring opinions of the Merit Protection Board; PBGC, which has the opinion letters of the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation; and DOL, ERISA opinions from 1974 to 1985. These files can then be combined by using the larger files, CASES and ADMIN. CASES contains all of the above seven files; ADMIN contains all except the COURTS file. Most research can be very quickly carried out by using only the CASES file.

There are other files as well. Three of them are comprised of BNA (Bureau of National Affairs) publications. These are DLABRT, PENSN, and GOVEMP. The DLABRT file contains item from BNA's Daily Labor Report from 1982 to the present, detailing all sorts of labor activity, primarily news of interest from Capitol Hill. PENSN has items from BNA's weekly Pension Reporter; GOVEMP covers activities of the federal unions. These three BNA files are also combined into BNALAB, for quicker searching. The last file in the labor library is CRF, covering the Code of Federal Regulations, titles 20 and 29.

The labor library on LEXIS points out one of the system's strongest points — there are so many different bodies and publications covered in this one library that to have them all, in hard copy, in a firm or university library, could cost quite a bit. A firm that does little in labor law may see no need to subscribe to the BNA publications; and, if it does not subscribe, when the Pension Reporter is needed, the library could find a LEXIS system to be quite a blessing!

There also has been a new development that could be very helpful to researchers of labor law. A new library has been added which contains full-text articles from several areas of interest. This new library, ASAPII, is divided into two major group files, MASAP (Magazine ASAPII) and TIASAP (Trade and Industry ASAPII). This last file contains articles from more than 100 journals dealing with business, technology, and, yes, labor: the Monthly Labor Review is one of the items described in ASAPII promo as being in this file.

DIALOG

The Labor category on DIALINDEX (411) is a good starting point for labor research on DIALOG. The four files included in that category — ABI/INFORM (15), Management Contents (75), Legal Resource Index (150), and Laborlaw (244) — exhaust the labor resources available through DIALOG.

If you're looking for articles on comparable worth or concerning a particular union then you might want to run your query in inexpensive DIALINDEX to determine which of the three periodical files (15, 75, 150) are worth searching. Regardless of which files you ultimately select, be sure to update your results by searching Newsearch (211). You'll find that ABI/INFORM provides excellent, lengthy abstracts; that Management Contents is especially good at indexing relevant monographs; and that Legal Resource Index, while directly on point, has simply not been around long enough to provide good retrospective coverage of various issues.

Laborlaw (244) is the only labor file on DIALOG that indexes case law itself. Produced by BNA, the file corresponds to six of BNA's print services: Labor Relations, Labor Arbitration Reports, Fair Employment Practice Cases, Wage and Hour Cases, Occupational Safety and Health Cases, Mine Safety and Health. You may search by case name, case number, subject, citation, or parallel cite. You may sort or search by arbitrator. You may limit your search to state court cases or federal court cases. Coverage varies, but in general you may count on state, federal and administrative agency opinions from the past twenty years to be included. Full-text opinions are not available on Laborlaw so this file is of most use to libraries that own the corresponding BNA print sources. Libraries that do not own those print sources would probably benefit more from using LEXIS or WESTLAW to meet their case law research needs.

ship, with timely and helpful information.

Although putting our final issue to bed is certainly a relief, we really wouldn't have traded the past two years! Thanks for all of your support, ideas and positive feedback. Please continue your support as Tim Coggins takes over as new editor so that SOUTHEASTERN LAW LIBRARIAN will remain a quality newsletter.

The Southeastern Law Librarian is the official publication of the Southeastern Chapter of the American Association of Law Libraries. It is published quarterly in September, December, March and June. Editorial comments or submissions should be sent to the editors; subscriptions and membership information should be directed to the secretary/treasurer; and inquiries regarding advertising should be made of Mary Cooper, University of Virginia Law Library; Charlottesville, VA; (804) 924-3384.

The opinions expressed in the columns and articles are those of the authors and do not necessarily represent those of SEALL. The Southeastern Law Librarian is not copyrighted; however we would appreciate credit being given when quoting or photocopying materials from this publication.

SEALL EDITORSHIP CHANGES

With the first issue (Fall, 1986) of volume 12, I will be assuming the editorship of the SOUTHEASTERN LAW LIBRARIAN. It's going to be difficult to follow Mary and Hazel; they have done an outstanding job with the last two volumes.

An exciting part of editing the next volume is the agreement with Randall Brown of Law Book Exchange to print and distribute the newsletter. Hazel was instrumental in getting this arrangement for the Chapter and should be thanked for saving the Chapter substantial printing costs. As part of the arrangement, SOUTHEASTERN LAW LIBRARIAN will carry advertisements for Randall's business. We do, however, still need an Advertising Manager to recruit other advertisers. Please let me know if you are interested in this position with the newsletter staff.

Several regular columns will continue in the newsletter. Sally Waters of Stetson University has agreed to continue writing the LEXIS part of the ONLINE UPDATE column. Kathy Heberer will continue her responsibilities with the ONLINE UPDATE column. In fact, Kathy's responsibilities will be extended to include DIALOG plus other online services, like Wilsonline, PHinet, BNA, etc. A reporter is needed to take over the WESTLAW part of the ONLINE UPDATE column. Please call or write me if you are interested in that position. SEALL BRIEFS will continue as a regular column. During the time that I compiled that part of the newsletter, librarians were very responsive and mailed near-perfect copy most of the time. If you would like to serve as the compiler of the BRIEFS section, call or write me.

As always, the newsletter must have articles and other news from the Chapter members to continue the tradition of excellent newsletters. Please let me know your ideas, your interests, etc. Please write articles, news items, etc. for us. If you have ideas for articles, yet do not want to write the articles, let us know and we will attempt to locate someone to write the article. PLEASE GIVE US YOUR HELP!!!

For the Fall, 1986 issue, we must set a deadline of August 15, 1986. Deadlines for the other issues of volume 12 will be included in that issue. Please address all articles and other correspondence to me at the following address:

THE ROLE OF CONGRESS AND THE STATES IN MARINE AND COASTAL ZONE MANAGEMENT

by: Madeline Hebert
LSU Law Center Library

Program Coordinator:
MARGARET AYCOCK,
University of Virginia Law Library

Panelists:

JOHN NORTON MOORE, Walter, L. Brown Professor of Law and Director, University of Virginia Center for Oceans Law and Policy; former member, National Advisory Committee on Oceans and Atmosphere. THOMAS R. KITSOS, Senior Majority Staff Member, U.S. House of Representatives, Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries. R. GARY MAGNUSON, Director, Coastal States Organization.

The panel gave an overview of federal and state legislation which protects the marine environment and coastal areas. Mr. Moore discussed the Stratton Committee Report of 1969 and the disappearance of estuary areas, as well as the National Estuary Pollution Study of 1970 which led to the passage of the Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972 at the height of the environmental movement. The Act and its amendments in 1976 gave incentives to the states to develop plans, through administrative and energy impact grants. Current issues include debate over what should happen to this funding. NACOA recommended that the funding from the federal government should be phased down. Congress accepted this approach.

Thomas Kitsos spoke of the difficulty of finding legislative history for bills reconciling funding with budget constraints. He described the CEIP, coastal environment impact program, that dealt with the social and environmental impact on development of the offshore areas. He concluded that the states will have to take on more of burdens of this program because of the federal deficit.

Gary Magnuson spoke of the need for coastal zone management, (CZM) because of the large percentage of the U.S. population (80%) that will live in these areas by the year 2000. Also, there will be increased oil and gas development on the outer continental shelf. Twenty-three states and five territories have approved CZM plans. He concluded that a national program is needed, and that such a program would be beneficial to inland states as well.

CHAPTER MEETING SCHEDULED

Don't forget to mark your calendars for the Southeastern Chapter meeting in Washington, D.C. The breakfast meeting is scheduled for Monday, July 6, beginning at 7:30 a.m. Please check your official AALL convention program to verify the date, time, and place.

SEALL MINUTES

The meeting of the Southeastern Chapter of the American Association of Law Libraries was called to order at 8:00 a.m. on Saturday, April 19, 1986, in Charlottesville, Virginia, by Dick Danner (Duke University), President. He also noted that a quorum was present. The minutes of the last meeting held on July 18, 1985, as printed in the Southeastern Law Librarian, Vol. 11, No. 1 (Fall 1985), were approved. There were no changes to the minutes.

Bob Berring (University of California), President of the American Association of Law Libraries, was introduced to the members. He spoke briefly on the future of AALL.

Margarette Dye (Paul, Hastings, Janofsky & Walker), Secretary/Treasurer, gave the treasurer's report. As of July 1, 1985, the balance was $7,792.10. The ending balance as of April 15, 1986 is $7,040.24.

Ed Edmonds (William & Mary), Chairman of the Constitution and Bylaws Committee, introduced and explained the proposed amendments to the Constitution and Bylaws. Proposal 1 establishes a cut-off date for non-payment of dues at 3 months after the mailing date on the dues notice. Proposal 2 splits the offices of Secretary and Treasurer. Proposal 3 provides for a procedure for mail ballots in the Bylaws. Each proposal passed with a unanimous vote.

Kay Todd (Paul, Hastings, Janofsky & Walker), Chairman of the Nominating Committee, announced the following slate for 1986-1987: Vice-President/President Elect — Hazel Johnson (Smith & Hulsey); Secretary — Larry Wenger (University of Virginia) and Treasurer — Bill James (University of Kentucky).

Cherry Thomas (University of Alabama), Chairman of the Placement Committee, announced that to make the committee more effective a network of librarians to report jobs had been set up. The committee posted a list of the network librarians in the exhibit area.

Nancy Johnson (Georgia State University), gave the report for the Scholarship Committee and requested approval from the membership on the policy that if a scholarship was not used the money would be returned to the SEALL. Approval was given. The following were announced as winners of the 1986 Lucille Elliott Scholarships: Doris M. Hinson, Duke University; Suzanne Krebsbach, McNair, Glenn, Konduros, Corley, Singletary, Porter & Dibble; Susan Morrison, Louisiana State University; and Janet Sinder, Duke University.

Hazel Johnson (Smith & Hulsey), co-editor of the newsletter, announced that Tim Coggins (University of North Carolina) had agreed to be the new editor of the newsletter. The newsletter has also begun taking ads. Mary Cooper (University of Virginia) is in charge of ads. Articles for the newsletter were solicited.

Dick Danner gave the report of the Membership Committee for Mike Chiorazzi. The Membership Committee within the last year has prepared a brochure and compiled a membership directory which is ready to go to the printer. CIS will print the directory.

Carol Billings (Law Library of Louisiana), Vice-President/President-Elect, solicited ideas and/or speakers for the next meeting. She introduced her committee — Bill James, Hazel Johnson and Mary Cooper Gilliam — and thanked them for their assistance. Larry Wenger, Chairman of Local Arrangements, also thanked his staff for their assistance. ACCOUNTING — ONLINE

HAZEL JOHNSON (Smith & Hulsey) and ED EDMONDS (William & Mary) provided perspectives on on-line accounting techniques for private law firm libraries and academic law libraries.

The speakers made two assumptions when preparing their presentations: (1) the person contemplating on-line systems is required to prepare a budget, and (2) this person has a need for more information than can be found in a 'paper' system.

Hazel Johnson, who uses the Symphony software package on a PC, noted that in defining the budgetary process the players must be identified. Who controls the budget? Who is accountable? Who can say no? Also, the scope must be defined. What does the budget include? Research tools and salaries? Where is the money spent? Which vendors? Ultimately the budgetary process is an information process.

An on-line system can make the process of data gathering easier so that the firm can better understand the costs. A system can assist with establishing an inflation rate. Since the system can sort by title or publisher, subscription reviews are made easier. Furthermore, expenditures by department and expenditures for branch offices are easily gathered. While monthly reports become possible, how much information to be provided must be based on the needs of the individual firm.

Ed Edmonds, who uses the Lotus 1-2-3 software, established a budget code which is the 'bedrock' of his system. While he used a manual spreadsheet for several years, his present on-line system is some dream and some reality.

He recognizes that most collection development policies will affect the data collected and input for comparative reporting and coding. His budget is split into a book budget and a serials budget. In the serials budget, he can gather data on renewals, new subscriptions, backfiles and replacements. By looking at the replacements, he can tell where his loss is. In the texts and treatises budget, he gathers data on current materials, reprints, reference and replacements. The system enables him to know what he is now spending his money on.

The uses of an on-line system include:

(1) Establishing comparative data — Where is the money spent? What should be kept current?

(2) Setting budget projections — Where can costs be cut?

(3) Creating a framework for a collection development policy — What projections can be made based on institutional buying patterns?

Finally, Ed advises that if you plan to implement an on-line system you should be prepared to provide support and training to the staff who will be involved.
